

On January 14:th, some of the best female Counter-Strike teams in the world will attend the Counter-Strike 1.6 tournament Rockstar World Cup, and fight for both fame and parts of the €5000 prize pool. Behind the event stand Rockstar Energy and Inferno Online. The competitions will be held in the newly built Stockholm E-Sports Arena in downtown Stockholm/Sweden.

Ten teams from all over the world have been invited to the event: Alternate (DE), Unfinished (SE), Definitive-eSports (SE), LDLC.com (FR), Extensive (FR), Tegriz (RO), ASUS ladies (RU), MoscowFive (RU), Millennium (DE) and myR (RO). There is still room for two more teams.

– For Rockstar Energy, eSports is important in terms of attitude. Practitioners are the gladiators of our time, just as MMA fighters and those involved in extreme sports. But up until now mostly male eSports athletes get recognized. We want the female esporters to gain some attention as well, says Max Collin, e-sports manager at Rockstar Energy in Sweden.

– After many great and successful events at Inferno Online, such as Arbalet, ESWC/ WCG qualifiers, the Inferno Online League and E-Sport SM, it feels really great to work with Rockstar Energy to organize an event for women where the elite gather from around the world. The idea behind it all is to have a contest once a year and maybe add Rockstar World Cup for men too. Long live CS, says Anton Budak at Inferno Online.

Rockstar World Cup is held at the Stockholm E-sport Arena during the 14th-15th of January. Anyone is welcome to follow the action on location, at no cost. It is also possible to watch live broadcasts through the Internet.

Two additional spots are open for the tournament, and those teams interested in attending are requested to email max@rockstarenergy.se for more information.
